C. AIDA Europe Assembly 2017 - Motions

- Approval of Annual Report 2017
- Approval of Annual Accounts 2017
- Election(s)

Starting in Summer 2017, the AIDA Europe Scientific Committee launched the Call for Papers geared to the Warsaw Conference Theme. The Call triggered a high level of interest. From the 35 abstracts submitted, close to 20 authors qualified as eligible for the contest and shall be considered for the prize giving competition at the AIDA Europe Conference in Warsaw. This is a very successful result and proves the attractive format and opportunity, which AIDA Europe is offering to the academia and legal research in general. It also underlines AIDA Europe's focus on one of its main goals, which is to provide for a critical review of the key legal and regulatory issues related to important legal and market developments. Encouraged by this large interest, AIDA Europe also decided to launch a dedicated publication format in the form of the AIDA Europe Research Series.

Following a very productive Strategy Day 2017, the AIDA Europe Committee met again in February 2018 to further develop the AIDA Europe Strategy. After sharpening the academic agenda and direction in 2017, the main focus in the 2018 Strategy Day was the review of AIDA Europe's ongoing public interest work. This includes AIDA Europe's contributions to

- Law making and the development and harmonization of legal issues outside the Conference schedule, which is yet at a very early stage;
- Assessing the feasibility for AIDA Europe to provide superior academic education (e.g. summer schools); and
- Strengthening of AIDA Europe's membership base, e.g. by checking the feasibility of individual membership in AIDA Europe

In 2017 a group of in-house counsel has started an initiative to form a dedicated group within AIDA Europe, with the aim of supporting and developing legal issues akin specifically to the insurance industry and in-house counsels' concerns. This initiative is now embraced by the AIDA Europe In-house Counsel Committee and should become an attractive forum to in-house counsels and other interested groups, developing activities also beyond the AIDA Europe conference schedule.

The development of a broader interest in AIDA's activities by young lawyers is a key goal for AIDA and AIDA Europe. To that effect, special events will be promoted to attract younger colleagues to actively engage in the initiatives of AIDA Europe.

The AIDA Europe Scientific Committee and the AIDA Europe In-house Counsel Committee have greatly assisted in staging the Warsaw Conference Theme. InsurTech reflects a key development in the insurance world. The conference will address the changes through which the insurance industry and its stakeholders, are going through, and their related legal impact on legal principles. On the other hand, the conference tries to de-mystify these developments putting them into perspective with traditional legal concepts and principles.

AIDA offers a unique platform for the analysis and discussion of insurance related legal issues, given the fact that a wide range of stakeholders engages in the activities of AIDA Europe. In order to better make use of this platform and promote the expertise embedded in the AIDA network the AIDA Europe Research Series was launched in conjunction with the Warsaw Conference. This should allow for broadening of the academic range of AIDA Europe, building a repository for scientific analysis and legal commentary. It is hoped that this initiative will also contribute to and provide a basis for the discussion of key legal developments and best practices in the insurance world.

The Key Action Points as decided by the AIDA Europe Committee for AIDA Europe 2018/19 include

- Public Interest Work: Law making and the development and harmonization of legal issues outside the Conference schedule
- Scientific Agenda: Broadening the insurance related legal research through the AIDA Europe Research Series as well as assessing the feasibility for AIDA Europe Summer Schools
- Strengthening & developing the AIDA Europe Membership basis: Supporting national chapters & checking the feasibility of establishing individual membership for AIDA Europe

2. Scientific Agenda & Activities of AIDA Europe Scientific Committee

The AIDA Europe Scientific Committee launched a successful Call for Papers geared to the Warsaw Conference Theme. Final papers are expected by the 30th June 2018 and they will be published in a book reflecting the title of the Warsaw Conference and co-edited by Prof. Pierpaolo Marano and Dr. Kyriaki Noussia. This book will be the inaugural book of the newly established AIDA Europe Research Series on Insurance Law and Regulation directed by Prof. Pierpaolo Marano and published by Springer. The Series will include only books in the English language with an international, European or comparative approach. An Editorial Board comprising of more than 30 professors from all around the world has been set-up and it will act for the next four years. A number of edited books and monographs are already in the pipeline, whilst proposals of new titles are warmly welcome.

AIDA Europe Scientific Committee is also thinking about a summer school project concerning Insurance law and regulation as well as how to support the project of a PhD program in Insurance law and regulation that may be established with the financial support of the European Union.

measures in the industry. It has therefore not been easy to attract the interest of sponsors to the sponsoring opportunities for this conference. Still, thanks to the hard work of all, and despite this hardening factor the sponsoring budget has been rather successful and sponsoring has been the highest of all AIDA Europe Conferences thus far.

The number of delegates registering for the Warsaw Conference is expected to be in a comparable range with past Conferences, which attracted around 180 – 200 delegates from countries all around the globe.

The below tables show the sponsoring support which AIDA Europe has enjoyed in the most recent Conferences. We are, of course, most grateful to our sponsors!

4. Tax Status of AIDA Europe

By decree of 25 September 2017, the Zurich Cantonal Tax Authorities granted AIDA Europe a tax exemption. On 24 October 2017 the Zurich City Tax Authorities (ZCTA) filed an opposition brief against the decree, mainly arguing that AIDA Europe is lacking the necessary university related linkage.

AIDA Europe filed its opposition to the ZCTA's opposition on 5 December 2017, emphasizing and clearly showing that this characterization is wrong. In support of the arguments AIDA Europe also filed supporting evidence by the University of Zürich's Law Faculty (Prof. Dr. Helmut Heiss) and by pointing to the large number of academic and university related aspects of

The current membership base is quite diverse in terms of their local activities and their Chapters' membership base. Most of the Chapters maintain a high level of activity and have a large number of members. It would be the intent of the Committee, also supporting those Chapters with a smaller members' base, by allowing them to use the best practice examples of their leading fellow Chapters. After all, AIDA Europe tries to put all members on an equal footing, with a view, to achieving a maximum impact of the local Chapters in their national environment. Having a strong national members' base, will also support the principle aims of AIDA Europe, i.e. the furtherance and development at a European level of insurance and related law.

6. Outlook

As a non-profit organization, AIDA Europe depends heavily upon the voluntary work of those driving its activities. This grateful work is highly appreciated. With the aims set for 2018/19 major work needs to be done, requiring the attention of those already shouldering multiple tasks. Thus, a key challenge will be to focus on those aspects that truly matter and benefit AIDA Europe's stakeholders the most. It also means that certain other wishful aims and activities may simply have to be postponed or adjusted, due to resource constraints.

However, Conferences like the up-coming AIDA Europe Conference in Warsaw always also provide for an opportunity to trigger the interest of
